Dear Susie,
Best of luck
to our of the cutest girls I've ever known.

love,
Lucy

P.S. Sorry I had to go to the wedding and you had to go to the beach
instead.

Dear Suzie,
It has been fun
being in classes together where we have been together to hear all the teachers yell at us. I certainly will miss you next year and be sure to write

DEDICATION

Because of . . . . .

Your patience and sense of humor;

Your constant willingness to put in a good word for us;

Your encouragement in this our most important year at Ellis;

Your appreciation and recognition for endeavor rather than proficiency;

We, the class of 1952, dedicate our yearbook to you

DOROTHY R. BENSON

FOREWORD

It's here at last—the day we've looked forward to for so many years—June 12, 1952.

As Freshmen, in our first year as true Upper School girls, we made our mythology notebooks, wrote our autobiographies, and had our first "real" dates. In that year, Seniors and Commencements were things far removed from our little world, but nevertheless they were ever present in the backs of our minds. As Sophomores, we did our Latin projects, faced geometry for the first time, and had our first chance to be on Varsity teams. Our Senior year seemed suddenly closer. As Juniors, we were elected to certain major offices, made our first applications to colleges, took the Junior S.A.T.'s; then it dawned on us that our Commencement was but one short year away. Throughout our senior year, filled with hard work, extra-curricular responsibilities, and the constant thoughts of colleges, we looked forward to June 12 with great expectations.

Now it is here, and we leave our green uniforms for white graduation dresses, we realize that our Ellis days will soon be only a memory, a memory which will stay with us forever. For, here, we have learned, not only our lessons, but also how to think and how to accept responsibility. As we prepare to go forth to college and life after that, we feel an awareness of all that Ellis has meant to us and given to us.

We leave this yearbook, not only as a remembrance of our class, but also as a token of our appreciation for what we have learned through the help and guidance of Miss Tilley and the interest of the faculty.

Fifty Years Hence

It is the year 2002, and the Class of 1952 has decided to get together for its fiftieth reunion at Norina Dorbritz's estate on Mars. Two members of the class, Margot Copeland and Louise Fleger, are permanent members of the newly-created Martian colony, while Norina and Louise Mulert have homes both on Mars and on Earth.

Louise Mulert arrives, somewhat behind schedule, with the rest of the class. It seems that she had a little trouble piloting her Cadillacron. Never having gotten a license to drive the now outmoded automobiles, she finally managed to pass the test two years ago for her jet license, after 69 failures.

Settling down to our Frozen Daiquiries, we discuss our lives since leaving Ellis fifty years ago. Our major objective in life, that of getting married, has happily been realized by all of us. Outside of that, we have led varied lives.

This is Bex Byerly's first inter-planetary trip. She and her ball-playing husband were just too busy raising their ten children and buying pianos, to find the time. She is still living in Pittsburgh and spending her summers in Chautauqua. There are ten pianos in each of her houses, one for each child. Because of a phobia acquired in her youth, the first song taught her children was "Soothe Me," which they play even now in a "dectet."

Margot Copeland, who lived on Mars for ten years, is very happily married to a slightly mad scientific genius. Her six homely children were evidently holy terrors in school and were continually criticized for their laziness and mental blocs. This comes as no surprise to us. Margot, after an incentive given to her in her junior year at Ellis, holds the distinction of organizing the first radio station on the planet.

Norina Dorbritz, having married quite young, is the first in the class with great-grandchildren. Her chain store magnate husband has recently opened offices on Mars, and maintains homes on both this planet and Earth. She promises to have her two youngest grandchildren come in soon and entertain us with some "parlor magic," containing tricks they learned from several of their great-uncles and aunts.

Louise Fleger and her 7′ 3″ husband have lived on Mars for many years now. They decided they liked the countryside after being stranded here for three months, due to a breakdown of their very ancient rocket ship. Shortly after their decision to move, Louise's mother moved into the city, and divided her 88.9 acre estate in one of the remotest sections of Earth, Allison Park, between her two daughters; Louise traded her share of the property for her present home.

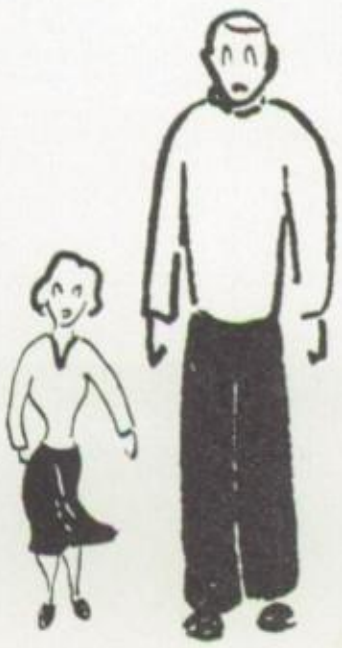
Gretchen Gantner, after reportedly turning down seventeen proposals, finally married a man ten years older than herself. Her four children were all on the Dean's list in their college days. For the past thirty-three years, she has been treasurer of no less than fifty-seven organizations. Several of her children have established a hospital here, so that their children could have a place to set up a junior auxiliary connected with the hospital gift shop. Right now, she is busily writing letters to her many friends spread over four planets.



Susan Kyle and her family have remained in Pittsburgh. This is her first visit to Mars as her railroad magnate husband has always been very strongly against rocket ships, and it was only with a great deal of persuasion that he allowed her to come. Back on Earth, she has gained considerable fame writing historical novels in French. She has now increased her shoe collection to 4,003 pairs.

Louise Mulert now lives in New York, always her favorite city, with her out-of-state husband. She is now engaged in peeking under the tablecloth, a habit acquired in her youth.

Linda Rushton is very happily married, and has three children. It seems that her husband proposed to her over the phone while they were doing their homework together back in college. She has been having a great deal of trouble keeping on the ground because of the very slight gravitational pull here, so Norina, envying Linda's still slim figure, has lent her a pair of lead bottomed shoes. Linda takes turns letting her children park her rocket ship. We remember her trouble with car-parking back in her Ellis days.

Barbara Vaux is quite used to visits on Mars, having traveled extensively a few years back with her hockey playing husband in connection with the activities in the "Inter-Planetary Hockey League. Barbara created a great sensation in the medical world in the early years of her marriage. It seems that all four of her children were born with ice skates built on their feet. Her greatest joy, next to her family, has been her own little rocket ship, which she may pilot any time she wants.

It is growing dark, and so we decide to break up our little party. Barbara Vaux, quite distracted by the trip up, has insisted on piloting Louise Mulert's space ship back to Earth. With a great whoosh the huge ship takes off, and the class of 52's fiftieth reunion is over.

Last Will And Testament

We, the members of the class of nineteen hundred and fifty two, being of unsound mind and body, do hereby declare this to be our last Will and Testament.

First, we direct our executor to pay our just debts and funeral expenses.

Second, we , as individuals, do make the following bequests:

Rebecca Byerly leaves her blue Buick to Pat Nash to carry on the driving pool on Lytton Avenue.

Margot Copeland leaves her feminine, black book bag to Sandra Butler, who has already been duly advised concerning its uses and advantages.

Norina Dorbritz leaves her letter writing technique to Anne Kyle, in hopes that she can keep up her contacts with Harvard successfully.

Louise Fleger leaves her seat in the car-pool to Linda Fleger, so that she may be able to get to all the Shady Side games.

Gretchen Gantner leaves a picture of a mutual friend to Maxine Cohen, with the hope that she will take care of "it" when she is gone.

Susan Kyle leaves a $7.50 bottle of champagne to Ann Copeland, to satisfy her expensive tastes.

Louise Mulert leaves a bottle of coke and a radio to Justine Mulert, so that she may be able to study better.

Linda Rushton leaves a bottle of peroxide to Lindy Winston, to keep her streak shining.

Barbara Vaux leaves an autograph of Tim Horton to Michele Catalano to keep the tradition of having at least one ardent hockey fan in the school.

Third, all the rest, residue and remainder of our estate we bequeath to our sister class.

Lastly, we hereby nominate, constitute, and appoint Miss Fairlamb to be Executor of this, our last Will and Testament. We authorize and empower our said Executor to exercise full authority over the in-coming senior class.

It is three o'clock on a Monday afternoon, and the Juniors file noisily out of Miss Wylie's study hall and run pell-mell down the stairs. You've guessed it. It's Armory time again, and Miss Benson can look forward to another delightful afternoon with those excellent basketball players, the Juniors. After everyone is squeezed into the cabs and the motors are started, we hear a scream, "Wait for us!" Caroline Clark and Esther Siegle, each with enough books to sink a battleship, come racing down the driveway and slide gracefully(?) into the cabs, causing a mild uproar. The doors are slammed, and we are on our way.

In the first cab, Honey Bartley, Anne Kyle, and Ann Copeland are giving the various spicy details of their weekends, while Ruth Lawrence, the studious one, laments that she misses the logarithm study in math class. In the other taxi our Italian Trio, consisting of Chardie Bayles, Marilynn Crawford, and Liz Seneff, entertain us with several choice arias, while Silvia Cohen adds a charming descant that can be heard for miles around. As we pull up to the Armory door and tumble out of the cabs, the taxi drivers pull away with a relieved sigh, as if to say, "Thank goodness that is over."

"One for all and all for one"—is the cry of the mighty Sophomore Musketeers. As Dumas' famous characters, we are in everything—detention, penalty time and teacher's hair. Every girl is a participant in some school organization or activity. Like the Musketeers, we enjoy romance, adventure, and the arts. Each girl does her part to make this class a better one. This year we are glad to welcome Betsy Boshell, Ann Bayles, Joanne Sheddan, and Marjory and Ruth Frame to our ranks. Like the Musketeers, we have many talents. Some of which are writing, singing dancing, and cheerleading. The girls in our class are always ready to help one another so that our Sophomore class is united.

Freshmen are supposed to be the world's worst problem children, green as grass, and just as hard to mow down. The class of 1955 is no exception. We drive our teachers crazy. We create mass confusion trying to find out who does not get her obligation merit. We ruin "Rec" hall practicing the Charleston during lunch period; but by 1955 you will find that, actually, we have brains, talent, and charm. In fact, we are twenty-two potential atom bombs.

"Oh no, not again," moaned Miss Thatcher as she recalled the nightmare which she had just had about the eighth grade, which was always haunting her. As she went to the medicine cabinet, to get an aspirin, she remembered Deedee, Helen, and Polly. "They certainly jump fences well on horseback, but I wish they hadn't disturbed the 694th sheep I counted tonight," she mumbled. "Then there are Jean, Janny Lou, and Motzie—I've always wondered what they talk about behind their notebooks." Miss Thatcher's face grew even more contorted as she remembered Penny, Linda, and Barbie—explaining to a very interested gallery, consisting of Betty, Lizzie, Nina, Augusta and Hydie, their latest way to harass the teachers. Then there is Anita, telling a very confused Karen and Barbara that they have been exceptionally good this year. As she went back to sleep, she could just see Kyra, Patty, and Margie quietly discussing their newest ideas for giving the school an escalator, when they graduate, four years from now. Miss Thatcher returned to bed and sighed, "What's the use? I try and try and try, but I don't know if I'll ever get anywhere with the class of '56."

ACTIVITIES

Student Council

President ..... Susan Kyle

Secretary ..... Rebecca Byerly

Treasurer ..... Louise Fleger

The Ellis Student Council is the school organization formed to carry out certain duties for the benefit of the girls in the five upper classes. From each of these classes are elected representatives, who take on the responsibility of acting as a sort of "go-between" for the members of their own class and the rest of the Council.

One duty of this group is to maintain the honor system at Ellis and to take charge of the Honor Study Hall. This year the Council also presided over one morning assembly each week, and, of course, saw that the rules and regulations of the school were carried out. Thus, the Council continued its job of bettering the understanding between the students and the faculty and making the school year as profitable and enjoyable as possible.

It was seventh period lunch and the new Guild representatives were soon assembled in Miss Soule's room with the first meeting of the year about to begin.

The first point of business was to choose Miss Benson as our faculty advisor. Then we proceeded to plan our coming year's work concerning the distribution of the money to the different charitable organizations, the Ellis Fair, and other services in which we were participating this year. Then there was a slight pause while every one devoured a few morsels of food.

We followed this brief outline by a more detailed discussion of how the students would vote on the profits from last year's Fair and of the dues to be collected to aid the local and national charities. We decided that the annual Guild Assembly would be abolished this fall. Instead, each class would express its views to the representatives as to how the money would be distributed. Just then the bell rang, ending the first Guild meeting, and sending each girl to her respective class.

The Ivy

Editor-in-Chief ..... Ruth Lawrence

Assistant Editor ..... Marilynn Crawford

Business Manager ..... Judy Cohen

The Ivy is the Ellis literary magazine which is published semi-annually. The girls from the first through the twelfth grades write poems, short stories, and essays which are submitted to the Ivy Board. The best material, according to the decision of the Board is printed in two issues of the Ivy.

"All newspaper articles due Monday!" Gretchen issues an oft heard cry and another Patchwork is begun. When it is finished, it will contain news of school organizations and their work, athletic events, interviews with school leaders, parties, gossip, fashions and many other various and sundry articles of interest to the whole school. Our newspaper, although only two years old, has already become a popular Ellis publication and one which, we hope, has a long life ahead.

Chi Eta Phi stands for the school's un-denominational religious organization. Its purpose is to create, among the girls, a better understanding of the various faiths: Catholic, Hebrew, and Protestant. During the course of the year, small informal discussion groups are held and speakers representing the different faiths come to talk with the students. Some religious movies are also shown.

The Glee Club

Librarian ..... Margot Copeland

A great surprise was in store for the Ellis Glee Club's forty-four members this year when we learned that we were to be directed by Ellis' first male faculty member. Under the able direction of Mr. Ready, we learned the fundamentals of correct breathing, reading music, tone quality, and the voice mechanism. New systems of roll call, and of care and maintenance of our music were established, which proved to be efficient factors in the organization of our club. Because we met only twice a week, it was necessary to hold regular section rehearsals throughout each week. Certain girls were appointed by Mr. Ready to help the sections learn their parts, so we could spend club time on interpretations rather than learning parts. We participated in the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, held our annual combined concert with Shady Side Academy, and proved ourselves a successful group at Mercersburg and Kiski. With our hard work and intensive effort came, not only success, but times full of fun and pleasure that we will always remember.

Dramatic Club

President ..... Judy Cohen

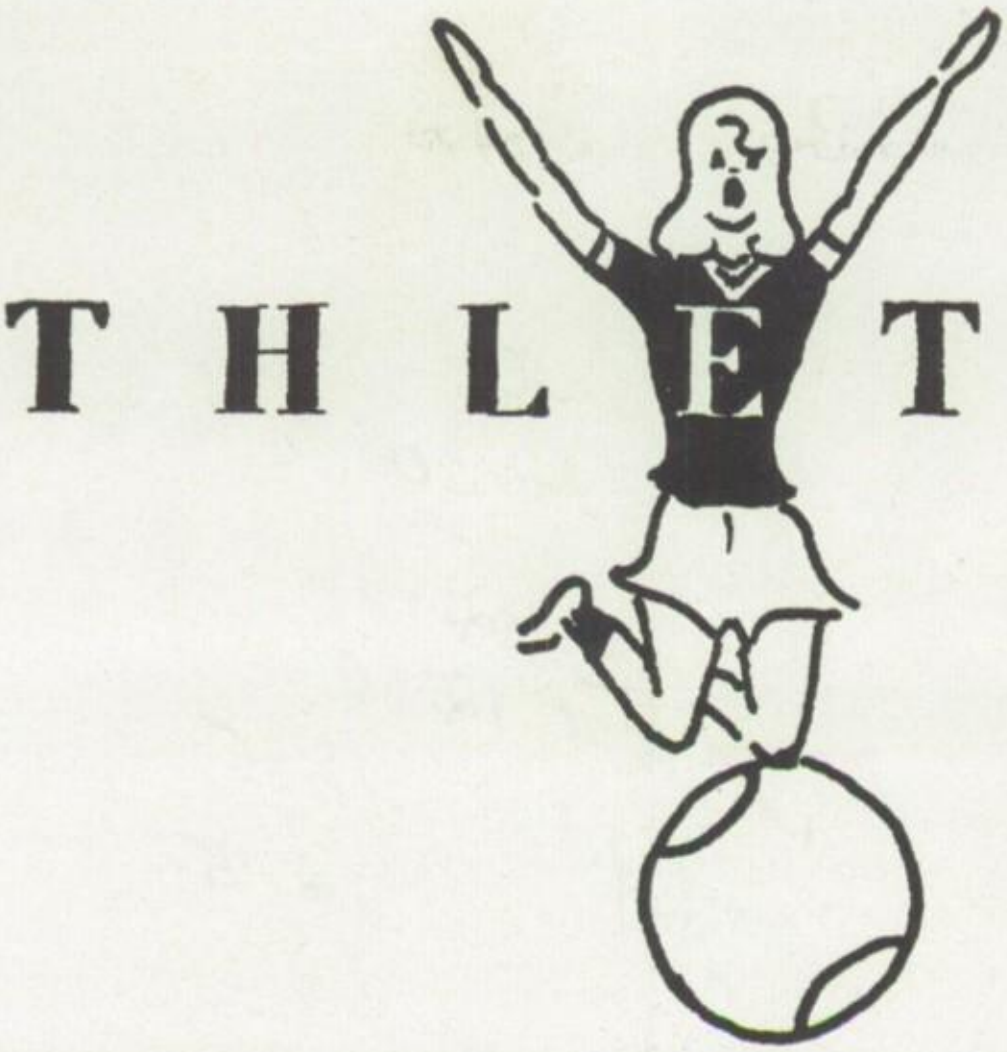
Vice-President ..... Michele Catalano

Secretary ..... Sallie McKee

Treasurer ..... Judy Beall

"The Play's The Thing" was the byword for this year's Dramatic Club. This organization, under the direction of Mrs. Sarver, has active members from the eighth grade through the junior class. All the girls worked together to make this year the best one that the club has ever seen. "Joan of Lorraine" by Maxwell Anderson was the main project of the year. This play within a play was given as an evening performance at the beginning of 1952. We hope you enjoyed our work as much as we enjoyed participating in this school activity.

ATHLETICS



The E. A. A.

President ..... Margot Copeland
Secretary ..... Rebecca Byerly
Treasurer ..... Barbara Vaux

The Ellis Athletic Association, more popularly known as the E.A.A., is one of the school's oldest and most important organizations. The E.A.A. is in charge of all athletic events, both outside and intra-mural. It is this organization which, under Miss Benson's guidance, supervises the schedules of hockey, basketball, and softball games with other schools, Green and White competition, class games, and the awarding of points for participation in various athletic contests towards the E.A.A. emblems. At the end of each year, cups are awarded to the best class team in each of the three sports, and silver bracelets are presented, by this organization, to the several seniors who have been outstanding in athletics in their Upper School years. The E.A.A. also give two parties a year for the school, a Halloween party for the Middle School, and a Skit Night in the spring for the Upper School.

All girls from the fourth grade through the twelfth are members of the E.A.A. The Board is composed of three officers, elected by the whole school, the team captains, and a representative from each class. This year's representatives were Elizabeth Seneff, junior; Karyl Kumer, sophomore; Judy Beall, freshman; Linda Fleger, eighth grade; Julie Howard, seventh grade; Ann Ebbert and Caroline Scott, sixth grade; Sally Armentrout, fifth grade; and Peggy Fisher, fourth grade.

Green Team

GREEN TEAM CHEER

The Greens are on the battlefield.

The battlefield's hot!

But you can't beat the Greens with the stuff they've got.

When you're up, you're up, and when you're down, you're down,

And when you're up against the Green team, you're up side down.

Hey, hey, ho, ho!

Come on, Greens, let's go.

GREEN TEAM SONG

TUNE: "Marching Along Together"

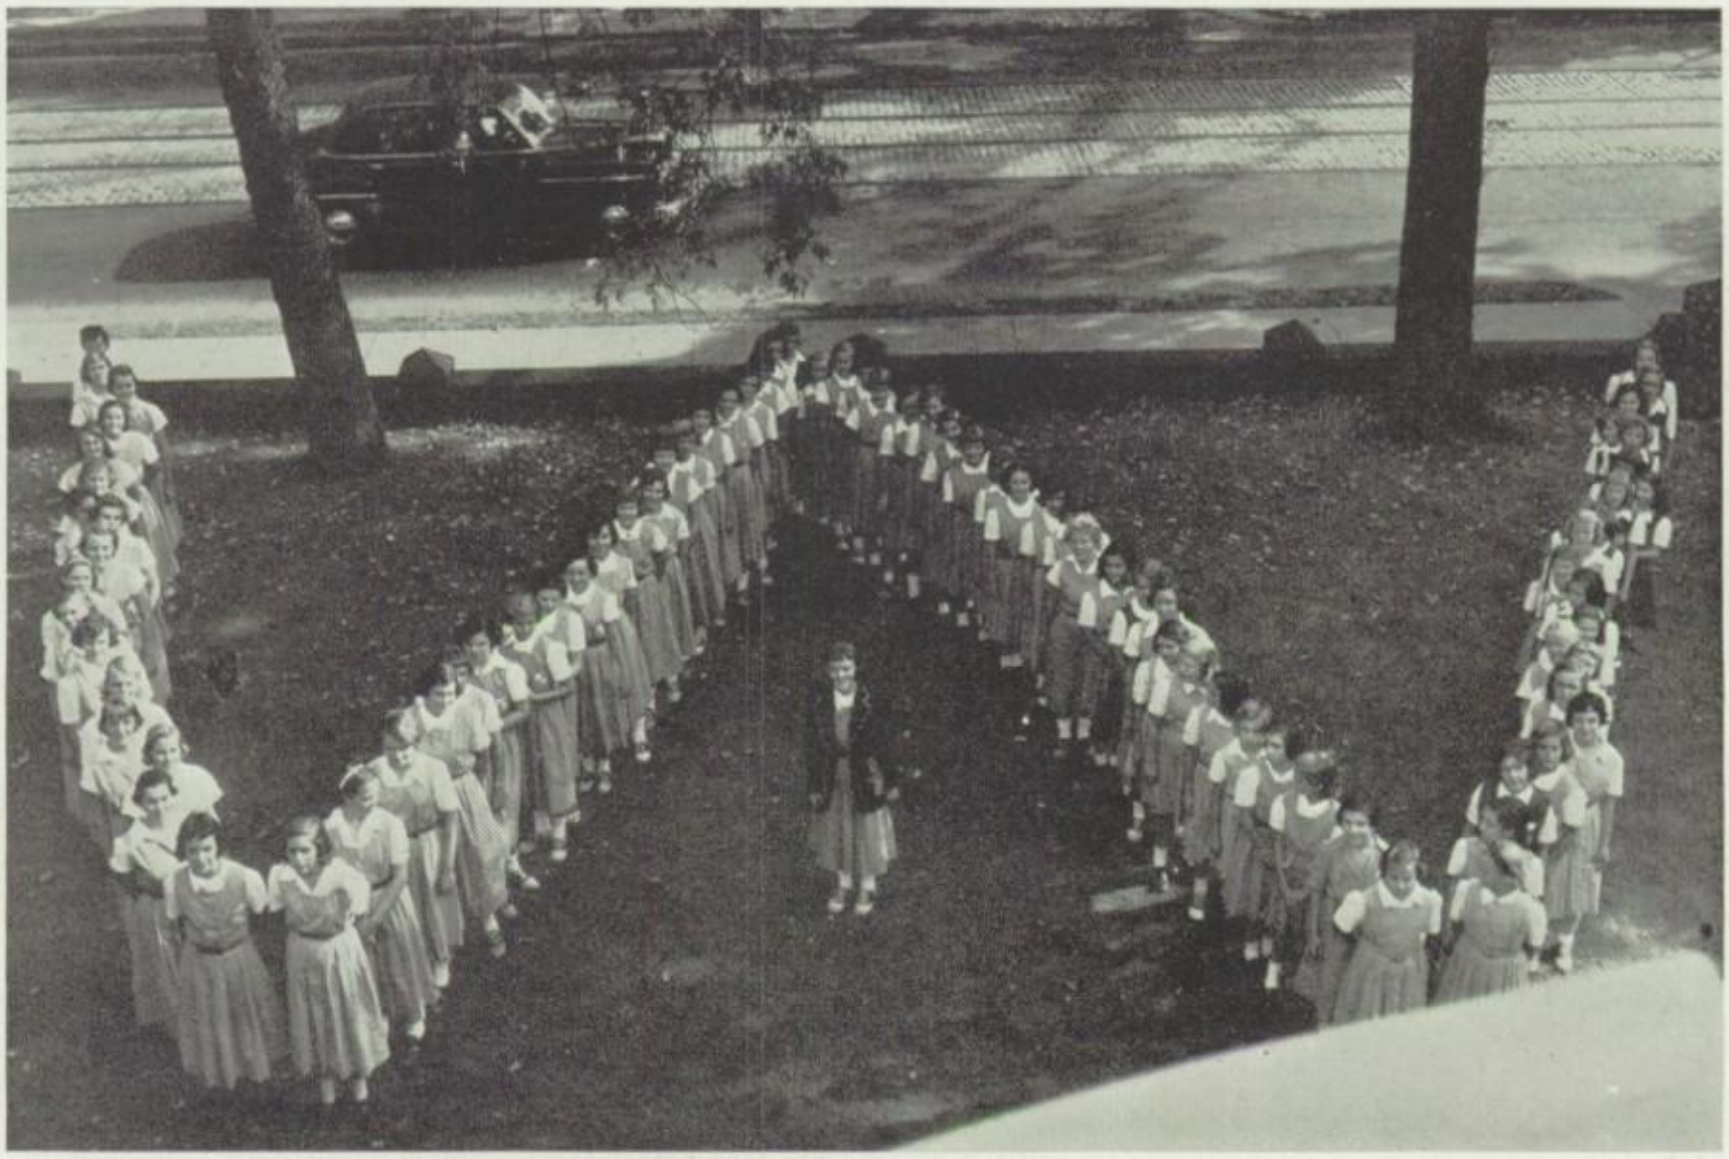
Carry the flag of spirit,
Raise it high above the rest.
All the Green Team will cheer it;
All unite to do their best,
Carry the flag of spirit
Whether we lose or win,
We're here together, before we fight
With sportsmanship our aim.
Uphold the banner each Ellisite
Fair play will win the game.
So—carry the flag of spirit,
Raise the banner as we begin.



White Team

WHITE TEAM CHEER

We're baking a cake,
We can't let it fall.
So, come on Whites,
Let's give it our all.

A pinch of snow,
A gallon of sun,
We'll mix it to give us
A year full of fun.

Oh, look at that cake,
Watch it rise.
The Whites are scoring,
Right up to the skies.

We've got the team,
To win this year,
So fellow Whites,
Let's end our cheer.
Yeaaah Whites!

WHITE TEAM SONG

TUNE: "The King's March"

Fight, Fight, Fight,
Fight you Whites.
Fight on to victory.
Onward on before,
Any kind of rivalry.
We'll fight, fight, fight.
And fight with all our might.
To be victorious in this great fight.

Our fame will rise
From the east to west,
Because our aim
Is by far the very highest.
We'll do our best,
To defeat the rest,
And be victorious in this great test.

(Repeat first verse.)

Dear Smussy-
a should I say
"Madame President" -
I am leaving you in Nellie's capable ~~hands~~ next year, seeing as I won't be here to call on you down where you don't setting - - - well, now - you take it from here. Don't be too good, (as I've been telling you for 4 years), and I'll see you in Nice French Embassy next and I are "left Bankers" have a always.
Weezie
when

Dear Suz -

after all our "?" "gay" sessions in Math class, I'll know better! Watch ~~out for~~ those phone calls with all your vicious males on the other end. Next year, as our Pres. we certainly will have order, hum! Keep the ears red and the tennis quite alive and I'll see you next year. Be good and always remember — "don't forget to run" — (the direction is up to you)

Lots of Love to Miss Athelet of oooo,

- Nell -
